CAMPUS CLUB PLAY PLEASES LARGE CROWD

Players Give Life-Like Interpretation To Difficult Lines In Somber Drama.

HUMOR WOVEN INTO SKETCH

With a capable cast giving a life-like interpretation to the difficult lines, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," by Jerome K. Jerome, was presented by the Campus club of Gettysburg college before a large audience in the Eddie Plank memorial gymnasium, Tuesday evening.

After a somewhat ragged start, the players, most of whom had little or no previous stage experience, settled down and gave polished performances.

While the underlying theme of the play is somber, snatches of humor, skillfully woven into the lines from time to time, raised the show from its philosophic depths.

Unique Story

"The passing of the Third Floor Back" is the story of the stranger who comes to a middle-class London boarding and lodging house where human frailties, in various forms of expression, are causing dissension among the occupants, and his influence on their lives.

The stranger, played by Dr. Rich-A. Arms, who directed the play, brings peace, harmony and contentment to the lodging house residents, inspires a painter to paint only fine pictures, a husband and wife to stop their family bickering, uncovers the latent talent in an entertainer, points out the eorror of an elderly woman trying to look young, changes the outlook of the proprietress of the lodging house and her servant.

In the Cast

The cast included Edward Frey, '35 "Joey Wright," a retired bookmaker; Dr. Francis C. Mason, as "Christopher Penny," a painter; Captain George R. Hedge, as "Major Tompkins," retired; Mrs. Hedge, as "Mrs. Tompkins;" Mrs. John Ostrom, as "Vivian Tompkins," their daughter; Professor George R. Larkin, as "Jape Samuels;" Miss Elizabeth Van Cleve, as "Miss Kite," unattached; Mrs. George R. Larkin, as "Mrs. Percival de Hooley;" Mrs. Henry T. Bream, as "Stasia," the slavey; Mrs. E. O. von Schwerdtner, as "Mrs. Sharpe," the landlady; Professor von Schwerdtner, as "Harry Larkcom," and Doctor Arms, as the man who occupied "the third floor back."

The play was given by the Campus club for the Gettysburg chapter of the Woman's league of Gettysburg college. Part of the proceeds will be sent to Prsident Roosevelt's Warm Springs, Georgia, crippled children's foundation.

Byrd And Crew Fight For Food, Lives Against Ice

Bay of Whales, Antarctica, Jan. 31 (AP)—Via Mackay radio)—Forty-four men, marooned at Pressure camp and cut off from the flagship of Admiral Byrd's Antarctic expedition, battled Tuesday for for their lives and the expedition's supplies against crumbling ice and howling winds.

The ice front of this bay, where Admiral Byrd is trying to land stores for the winter camp, appeared to be collapsing, with wide crevasses yawning in the entire barrier.

A crack opened Tuesday afternoon behind the halfway relay depot, a mile and a half from Pressure camp, a temporary unloading base four miles from the water.

Fear was expressed by the leader that the outpost and its tons of stores, cached there for transport to the permanent base at Little America, might be lost in the relentless ice movement.

In the broken and pitted pressure ridge and crevasses west of Little America and isolated men struggled with dog teams to save the provisions.

Since last Wednesday the edge of the ice has moved a mile nearer the flagship and the process of dissolution appeared to be accelerating, rather than slowing down.

In the last day hundreds of cracks have opened in the white flooring of the bay ice. The ship has hove to in the bay after cruising and drifting about, unable to find a mooring place, since early on Sunday morning.

Tuesday morning a section anchored to the ice foot of West Barrier, south of Chamberlin harbor, appeared to be holding and the flagship was headed in.

A motor sailer was put over the side and a short party conducted a brief reconnaissance. Two hundred yards from the edge they crossed a minute crack, but when they returned, twenty minutes later, they found there a gap three feet across.

Thoroughly alarmed, they skirted it and dashed back to the ship. In half an hour a floe, a mile and a half long, moved into the flotilla drifting up the east side of the bay.

Snyder, an insurance agent, is said to have the endorsement of G. R. Thompson, chairman of the republican county committee. While Aumen is being backed by other republican leaders and state employes in Adams countyy.

Democrats in Field

Gibson's resignation was presented to Judge Donald P. McPherson in court here last Saturday as the basis for the settlement of two charges of embezzlement against the former magistrate who resigned because he said he is ill in a veterans' hospital in New York city. A certified copy of his resignation was forwarded to Governor Pinchot by District Attorney John P. Butt on Monday.

Although a republican probably will receive the appointment, at least one democrat, William E. Olinger, South Washington street, is said to be in the race for the position.

Olinger, an insurance agent, has secured the endorsement of Adams county democratic leaders and State Senator John S. Rice, of Arendtsville. Senator Rice is understood to have pledged himself to do all in his power to secure the appointment for Olinger.

Whether the state senator can reach the governor's ear with sufficient arguments to swing the appointment to a democrat is conjectural.

HAINES SEEKS TO AID SMALL BUSINESS MEN

Interested In Establishing Finance And Mortgage Loan Group.

SAYS MONEY IS NOW AVAILABLE

Congressman Harry L. Haines, of Red Lion, representing the twenty-second congressional district, comprising York, Adams and Franklin counties, is interested in having an Industrial Finance and Mortgage Loan corporatin organized in this district.

The purpose of the corporation is to "assist business men in the operation of their business."

Congressman Haines has issued the following statement on the question:

"I am interested in having an Industrial Finance and Mortgage Loan corporation organized in my congressional district to assist business men in the operation of their business. Our banks have helped them as much as the laws permit and will welcome such an organization being formed to come to the rescue of business and industrial leaders who want to employ labor.

"The Reconstruction Finance corporation cannot make direct loans to private industry but will refinance the mortgages or notes of the corporation I have in mind. There is great need for some such organization and I am now trying to interest leading business men and financiers to co-operate and make such a corporation possible.

"We have gone to the rescue of the farmers in similar corporations and only recently I was instrumental in having a Crop Production Loan corporation established in my district with central offices in Gettysburg. This has been set up to loan money to farmers and help them put out their crops and is for general farm purposes.

Farm Loan Act

"I also was instrumental in having my district participate in the farm loan act that gives an opportunity to the fruit growers of the nation to have loan corporations set up; it led to the formation of a local association made up for the benefit of the fruit growers only, with central office in Baltimore and embracing the states of Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia and Delaware. John Karns, of Chambersburg, is the director for Pennsylvania of this fruit growers corporation.

"I deem it of equal importance to help our smaller business men, and if I can have such a corporation established in my district, I am sure it will mean much to not only the business men, but equally as much to labor. There are plenty of funds available and if I can bring several million dollars of new money to my people, it will help a great deal to put my people to work."

YORK NOTARY IS SUED FOR LOSS BY TITLE

False Certification Is Alleged In Action By R. M. Hoffman.

SAYS COMMON ACT IN YORK

An alleged false certification on a ttile of an automobile truck is the basis of a suit started in the common pleas court at York by R. M. Hoffman & Co., Inc., Gettysburg, against M. M. Grove, notary public of York, and Indemnity Insurance company of North America. The plaintiff company alleges that it has suffered loss to the extent of $2,000 plus interest from December 5, 1932. The insurance company is made defendant by reason of furnishing the bond for Grove, who at the time the cause of action arose was located at 34 North George street, York. Walter I. Anderson is counsel for the plaintiff.

According to the statement of claim filed when the suit was entered, in the office of Prothonotary William F. Logan, Grove as a notary public on December 2, 1932, certified that one H. C. Kreibel had subscribed and sworn to before him an application for certificate of title to a truck.

The plaintiff avers that H. C. Kreibel is a fictitious name and non-existent person and did not appear before Grove to make the affidavit as set forth and that no one purporting to bear such name appeared before Grove.

On December 5, 1932, Harry L. Kahler presented the application for title together with a purported lease agreement for a truck from Kahler to Kreibel, to R. M. Hoffman & Co. and offered to sell his interest in the truck subject to the lease agreement, and to sell the rights of Kahler under the lease agreement to the plaintiff company for the sum of $2,000.

Paid $2,000 For Interest

R. M. Hoffman & Co., relying upon the application for certificate of title alleged to have been sworn to and subscribed before Grove, notary public, purchased the interest of Kahler in the truck subject to the lease agreement. The company paid Kahler $2,000 for his interest.

The Indemnity Insurance company of North America of July 11, 1932, by its bond acknowledged itself held and firmly bound unto the commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the sum of $3,000 upon condition:

"Now the condition of the above obligation is such that if the said M. M. Grove appointed and commissioned notary public as aforesaid, shall and does well and truly and faithfully in all things, execute and perform the duties of said office as notary public, according to the several acts of assembly relating thereto———then this obligation to be void or else to be and remain in full force and virtue."

The statement of claim avers that the defendant has suffered its loss by reason of the failure of Grove in "well and truly and faithfully in all things executing and performing the duties of his office has notary public" as follows: In falsely certifying that H. C. Kreibel appeared before him and swore to the application for certificate of title to the motor truck. In negligently carryout his duties as notary public. In otherwise unlawfully performing the duties of his office.

Many Illegal Transfers

Commenting on the case, the York Dispatch says:

"Incidentally this suit brings into the open a situation that has long been known to those interested in selling automobiles and which has been frowned upon by notaries public who have some regard for the sanctity of their oaths and the ethics of their offices. It is safe to say that hundreds of automobile titles, mostly for the transfer of second hand cars, have been certified to falsely by notaries public in about the same manner as the one in this case is alleged to have been. It appears that the dealers in cars hold over the heads of the notaries the threat that if they will not certify to them they will take the papers to ones who will. The latter are not hard to find, it is claimed by those who will not falsely certify.

"It is seldom that titles thus submitted to dealers are forged, but it frequently occurs that notaries will certify to signatures when the transferer is not present and is not known to the certifying officer."

Roosevelt Eyes New Dollar Plan

Washington, Jan. 31 (AP)—Armed at last with the power he sought, President Roosevelt left congress today to the appropriations and St. Lawrence treaty disputes while he set about to devalue the dollar formally.

His monetary lieutenants were called into a conference considered important enough to defer the usual Wednesday morning meetings with the press to late afternoon.

Captiol Hill expected nothing out of the ordinary, a dollar of at least 40 per cent less than the present gold content now being accepted as a matter of course.

The senate still was plodding on the waterway pact with Canada and the house peeked into the latest of the supply bills that it will probably pass in a day or so. It was for the state, justice, commerce and labor departments and totals $90,667,000.

STOCK REPORT

New York, Jan. 31 (AP).—The fast-moving equities of yesterday showed resistance to the cashing in process during the early hours in the stock market today, but some of these turned a little heavy later. At the same time, the volume of transactions dwindled appreciably on the decline.

Some utility and alcohol shares held small gains and Union Pacific and Douglas aircraft got up about a point each. U. S. Steel, on the other hand, was off a point or more, as was Bethlehem, while Allied Chemical, Case, U. S. Smelting and Delaware and Hudson lost two or more each. Most of the motors were only mildly lower and American Telephone gave but little ground. Thhe rails were a bit easier, as were the tobaccos.

Here is a graphic picture of firemen fighting flames that leveled row on row of buildings in the Canarsie section of Brooklyn, N. Y., during the bitter cold wave which swept the east. Ten firemen were injured as the fire, fanned by a biting wind, spread across a half-mile front. Falling walls that injured seven of the 10, and ice forming in the zero weather made the firemen's work difficult. (Associated Press Photo)

WEDDING CONTROL IS ABANDONED

Stillwater, Okla., (AP)—Regulating marriages as a means of improving the human race has been given up as impracticable by most students of eugenics, Dr. A. Richards of the University of Oklahoma told the annual meeting of the Oklahome academy of science.

COUNCIL URGES CHURCH MERGER

Dr. M. Hadwin Fischer Is One Of Speakers At Harrisburg Meeting.

Harrisburg, Jan. 31 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Council of Churches closed its annual convention Tuesday night after mapping a campaign designed to bolster the position of religion in 1934.

During the two-day session, representatives of twenty-one denominations listened to talks by authorities on present-day problems and took steps to carry out the recommendations of their leaders.

Dr. M. Hadwin Fischer, of the seminary faculty, Gettysburg, was one of the speakers.

The program for the year, adopted after some discussion and debate on the floor of the convention, is embodied in these five points:

Comity — Consolidations and mergers to eliminate waste in religious services by eliminating unnecessary churches.

Evangelism—A militant plan to preach the gospel with increased vigor.

Christian Education—Encouraging religious education in the home.

Social Service—Discouraging salacious literature, improper motion pictures and other factors in modern life which the church holds degrades morals.

International Relations — Promoting the brotherhood of man to the end that fellowship will extend throughout the world.

A woman's confernece was held in conjunction with the council meeting Tuesday and these officers were elected:

Mrs. Charles Reutlinger, of Harrisburg, chairman; Mrs. Edwin W. Lentz, of Bangor, vice chairman; Mrs. D. Burt Smith, of Philadelphia, secretatry, and Miss Frances Elizabeth Smith, of Lebanon, treasurer.

The 1933 Russian wheat crop is officially estimated at 1,019,000,000 bushels, an increase of 37 per cent over the 1932 crop.

MARY GUARDED FROM 'CRANKS'

Because two persons talking about mysterious documents annoyed her while she was on an eastern trip, Mary Pickford obtained a police guard in Boston and Falmouth, Mass. Here she is shown with one of the guards, Patrolman Ralph Erskine, of the Falmouth police force at the home of Fulton Oursler. Miss Pickford said she felt the persons were cranks and asserted she was not afraid of being harmed or kidnaped. (Associated Press Photo)

State Fighting U. S. Liquor Tax

Harrisburg, Jan. 31 (AP)—The state and federal governments locked horns today in a legal battle over the collection of liquor taxes.

Attorney General William A. Schnader obtained from the Dauphin county court a temporary injunction restraining the three federal revenue collectors in Pennsylvania from exacting a license fee from all state stores and a floor tax of 90 cents a gallon on approximately 1,000,000 gallons of state owned liquor.

The store license fees would aggregate more than $6,000 and the floor tax would total about $900,000.

Collectors named in the rule are: Alvin Fix, David L. Lawrence and Leo C. Mundy, with headquarters in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Scranton respectively.

Today was the "deadline" for collecting the tax and fees and Schnader said he was informed that agents were reported ready to close state stores in their districts if payment was not made.

Birthday Fund To Exceed Million

New York, Jan. 31 (AP)—Figures from 41 states and the District of Columbia showed today that the nation's "birthday party" to President Roosevelt and to the Warm Springs, Georgia, foundation for sufferers from infantile paralysis was a social and financial success.

No effort was made by headquarters to bring in reports from the thousands of cities and villages where balls and parties were held last night, but the Assoicated Press, through bureaus in every state, gathered available figures which indicate that total receipts will probably reach $1,500,000 and maybe more.

The first figures available, incomplete and in most cases unofficially estimated, showed 737,067 persons contributed a total of $839,568 at the several hundred celebrations reported.

Cite Woman For Contempt Of Court

Scranton, Jan. 31—United States Judge Albert L. Watson today granted a rule to show cause why Mrs. Elizabeth Morgans, of Lansford, should not be held in contempt of court for her failure to testify in the bankruptcy case of her husband, Morgan O. Morgans, a former commissioner of Carbon county. Court fixed Tuesday for a hearing. The petition asking that Mrs. Morgans be cited for contempt was presented by Martin H. Phillips, attorney for a federal trustee in bankruptcy.

CONGRESSMAN HAINES SPONSORS POSTAL BILL

A bill affecting letters posted with insufficient postage has been presented to the house of representatives by Congressman Harry L. Haines, of the York-Adams-Franklin district, who drew the measure at the request of the postoffice department.

Under the existing regulations, mail matter which has been deposited for delivery but which has no stamps, or an insufficient amount, is sent to the dead letter office. The bill sponsored by Congressman Haines would permit relivery to the sendee when it is consigned to the delivery area of an office not more than three miles distant from the one at which it was deposited. The sendee would be required to pay the amount due, however.

FUNERAL THURSDAY

Miss Bessie Morton, colored, who died at her home on West High street, January 21, will be buried on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late home. The Rev. William H. Rector will officiate and burial will take place in the colored cemetery.

INSULL GIVEN 10 DAYS' STAY

Chicago Utilities Magnate Gets Extension Because Of His Illness.

Athens, Jan. 31 (AP).—On his plea that he is too ill to travel, the Greek government decided that Samuel Insull could stay there ten days longer before seeking another haven.

His residence permit was to have expired at midnight tonight when, government officials had previously said, he would be expelled.

The former Chicago utilities operator was granted the extension after the Greek premier and interior minister considered report by physician on the aged man's condition. Two government physicians found his heart was able to stand travel but reported he had diabetes.

The possibility arose that the minister of the interior might decide to employe the discretionary powers allowed him under the law and order Insull removed to some sanitorium, perhaps outside of Athens.

It was believed that one aspect entering into the government's decision was that ships leaving Greece in the next two days would take him only to countries having extradition treaties with the United States or those which would not permit him to land.

The delay means that Insull can catch a Japanese freighter which, after leaving Piraeus, the port of Athens, will stop first at Port Said, Egypt.

Byrd

The raised snow flooring was twelve feet above the water edge. This was noted particularly as an evidence of how swiftly the ice is moving.

At Pressure camp, the tents of which are visible from the bridge of the ship, the meen worked furiously.

Crews under Captain Taylor, Pete Demass and Harold June rushed sledges loaded with supplies through the pressure area on to the barrier overlooking Little America.

A second cache was established on the low-hanging west barrier a half mile from Pressure Camp in the direction of Little America.

The road to the base rises over deep furrows and makes travel extremely difficult. Crevasses forty feet deep hold dangers for the unwary. More than 100 tons of stones have been transferred from Pressure camp, but much more remained.

Since Wednesday, when the bay ice first threatened to overtake the camp, only the dogs have rested. The men have fought toppling sledges and slewing ice columns almost ceaselessly. They have eaten only during brief pauses.

By wireless Admiral Byrd has kept in constant touch with his men. Operators have worked on hour schedules at the flagship, Little America and Pressure camp.

The Bear of Oakland, the expedition's supply ship, was just three and a half days from the Bay of Whales at noon Tuesday and apparently was making a record run from Dunedin to the Antarctic.

Captain English reported from the Bear:

"We have met no pack but passed between sccores or tabular bergs stretching eastward to westward as far as the eye could see.

"There are frequent snow flurries which closed down vicibity, but due to alert maneuvering no emergency arose.

"Tuesday afternoon the wind hauled round to the westward and the ship is now steaming with all sails set except the flying jib, top gallant and the spanker topsail.

"With a bone in her teeth she is making nine knots and her scuppers are awash."

Some poultrymen put quinine on young chicks to check cannibalism.

BLOND GODDESS

By Herbert Jensen

SYNOPSIS: Frank Grahame just has been saved from death at the hands of Don Raoul Ortega, in the wilds of Yucatan. Ortega is, Frank suspects, the same who tried to kidnap Janice Kent in Hollywood a short time before. Now Frank is searching for a clue to the disappearance of his aviator friend Bill Langton, and Janice, whom he loves but who has refused him, is on her way to Mexico to make a film. Juan, a Mexican boy, just has agreed to go with Frank into the dangerous interior.

Chapter 20

MEXICAN MOVIE

Horatio Greene was disconsolate. For the first time in his life he felt somewhat at a loss. Mexico was uncivilized and not at all helpful. Everything had gone wrong that day and indications were that the balance of the afternoon would be equally baffling. Janice was fretful with him in the heat of the tropic afternon. Hogarth, the director, had damned him for an ass because his Spanish had not been adequate for the Progreso custom officials who had pawed over their cameras and equipment.

And this despite the official permission he had secured in Mexico City en route to Yucatan. McGrath, the production manager, should have been at the dock to meet them, McGrath, who had taken a previous boat, should have done a thousand and one things he had not done, and now everything was balled up.

"I'll bet," he rapped at Hogarth, "that he never was here at all. I'll bet he's swilling beer in some joint back in Tia Juana, or some other place a couple of thousand miles away."

"Yeah?" said Hogarth wearily. "What's beer in Spanish?"

"Cerveza," snapped Mr. Greene. "God knows what it is in this dialect."

Hogarth strolled off. "Hey, where are you going?" called Mr. Greene. "We're not through with these boxes yet."

Down the street a ramshackle sign hung out into the street. In crude but unmistakable letters it read "Cerveza." Hogarth was headed toward that sign. Evidently he learned his first word in Spanish and was making use of the knowledge.

Green turned wearily to his boxes. Later he visited Janice at the American consulate where he had left her. She was sitting drearily on the veranda, in a broken-backed wicker chair.

"Consul back yet?"

"No. I don't think he's coming either. This place looks as if it had been closed for weeks. Did you find McGrath?"

Mr. Greene exploded.

"Please," asked Janice.

"Excuse me," apologized Mr. Greene. "I'm all hot and bothered. Damn this country. Nothing goes right. Nobody knows where McGrath is. Nobody ever heard of him. I got all our stuff in the customs house and they sock me plenty duty.

"I went to a place they call a bank and they refused to cash my drafts, so finally I went to a sort of grocery store and the fellow told me—he speaks pretty good English—to hunt a dude up who was last seen walking toward a wharf.

"It took two hours to find him, but he cashed my draft all right. That's the only break I got. Hogarth and the two camera-men are getting drunk at some bar, waiting until the train starts for Merida."

"Is that where the ruins are?"

"No. That's the capital of this country or state or whatever it is. We make our headquarters there. The ruins are a day's ride further on. Why they wanted to come to this country is over my head. They can build sets better and cheaper than this location will cost."

"McGrath and Hogarth felt that we wanted authentic and accurate backgrounds."

"Those fat heads! The only thing authentic they wanted was the liquor."

A reedy and phlegmy whistle sounded. Mr. Greene mopped his face with a wet handkerchief and observed that they'd better get going as it probably was the train coming in to take them to Merida, an hour's ride from the coast.

"If it's any hotter when we work at the ruins," he grumbled, "we'll need asbestos grease-paint. The Kleigs got nothing on this sun."

They boarded the train. The day was cooling with the approach of dusk and the short quick shower that spattered them as they loaded the boxes, made the air appreciably more comfortable.

Mr. Greene regained something of his fussy aggressiveness. He located Hogarth and the two camera men, unbent sufficiently to finish, upon their rather thick tongued invitation, the cool liquid that remained in a quart bottle upon the table. He bundled them into their seats upon the train.

The train whistled and puffed out of the station. Mr. Greene had arranged his party at the rear end of their coach and placed their boxes so that they separated them from the packed and chattering humanity further forward.

"There was no first class coach on this train. They usually have one they told me. Another funny thing: They have a flat-car behind us with about twenty soldiers on it and another one behind the engine with some more army.

"I'll have to ask their general if I can use them for extras. We'll need a couple of hundred for the 'yelling, howling, savages' scene. They look too lazy to yell and howl much but maybe we can put a keg of beer on top of that big pyramid at the ruins and have 'em charge it."

The train rumbled along; Mr. Greene's voice rose and fell. Janice sat listlessly in her seat, smiling faintly as an occasional comment of Greene's amused her. Hogarth and the two other men had produced a bottle with an odd label and were partaking of it with hesitant expressions and wry faces.

Mr. Greene was explaining to Hogarth and his companions the proper Mayan pronunciation of Chichen Itza, the location of the ruins where their pictures were to be taken. It was apparent that none of his listeners were particularly interested.

Mr. Greene was proving that a guide-book could be articulate. He lifted his arm. He paused to draw a breath. Then, curiously, he half lifted in his seat. His expression was one of hurt and startled surprise. He toppled toward the aisle and as he fell sprawling, broken glass crashed about him.

The train lurched as if it had struck a solid obstruction. The passengers were thrown forward. Their coach ground to a stop.

A woman screamed piercingly; whereupon as by a signal other women took up her cry and men shouted. Janice heard, above the noise within the coach, the crash of exploding firearms. Glass from the windows shattered about her, splinters flew from the woodwork.

Then as suddenly as it had begun, the sustained rattle of firing stopped. There was an occasional shot, then a small volley or two, but the firing was not directed toward the coach.

Janice looked at the other passengers. The natives huddled together or crouched near the floor. Their first excitement had ceased and she heard them talking together in low murmurs—the word "revolucionistas" was repeated often.

Hogarth and the two camera-men were down behind their seats. A Mexican was standing in the aisle cutting at the sleeve of another, and a woman was sitting close by tearing at a white garment. Janice's glance dropped to the aisle near her. Mr. Greene was sprawled on his face, his bare, slightly bald head within a yard of her foot.

"Hogarth!" she cried. "Greene is hurt!"

Swiftly the girl knelt beside the lax body of Greene. With efficient strength she rolled him half upon his back. She cried sharply as she saw the mass of blood that stained his shirt front.

"Hogarth!" she exclaimed again. "Get some water from the cooler. A lot of it. I . . ." She sobbed a little with excitement. She pushed Greene's coat back from his shoulders. Her fingers fumbled at the buttons on the bloody shirt. "Oh, dear, a knife please, somebody give me a knife. Oh, poor Mr. Greene!"

Hogarth dashed a cup-full of water upon Greene's face. One of the camera-men knelt opposite Janice and began to rip with a pocket knife at the underwear beneath the shirt.

The man they were working on sighed deeply; his eyelids fluttered.

"Ow," muttered Mr. Greene.

Another cup of water was dashed upon him. This time against his chest. The liquid slushed away the blood and showed a ragged red welt across the white skin. Greene struggled to sit erect.

"Lie still," commanded Janice softly. "You've been hurt."

ARENDTSVILLE LOSES BY POINT

Upper Countians Defeated By Littlestown In Closing Minutes.

In one of the most exciting games ever staged in Littlestown, the Littlestown high school cagers defeated Arendtsville, 23-22, Tuesday evening, before a capacity crowd that was kept in a continuous uproar by the close play.

With but seven seconds to go Arendtsville led, 22-21. T. Maitland, high scorer for the evening, was fouled and converted both chances to put Littlestown ahead. Four seconds still remained to be played but resumption of the battle was impossible when the crowd swarmed out on the floor to acclaim their heroes.

Littlestown set the pase in the first period and led 12-8 at half time. Arendtsville rallied to outplay their opponents in the second half but lost out in the last few seconds. T. Maitland was the star of the evening with fifteen points. Bream and Hartzell shared Arendtsville's scoring honors with 8 points each.

The undefeated Arendtsville girls had little trouble in walloping the Littlestown maids for their eleventh straight, 36-8. At half time the score was 22-4.

Friday the Arendtsville teams play Emmitsburg at Arendtsville.

WINGS TO FACE HEURICH REDS

Gettysburgians To Seek Revenge For Early Season Defeat In Capital.

Thursday night the Gettysburg Fleet-Wings will seek revenge for one of the five defeats handed them this season when they clash with the Heurich Reds of Washington, D. C., on the Hotel Gettysburg annex floor.

Several weeks ago the Reds dished out an eight-point defeat to the Wings at Washington and come here prepared to repeat.

Bozie Berger, all-American guard while attending the university of Maryland, heads the lineup of the invaders.

Joe Crosan, 6-feet 6-inch center formerly at Duke university, plays the pivot post for the Reds and invariably gets the tapoff. Coach is rated as one of the best centers in this district and was largely instrumental in the Wings initial setback at the hands of the Heurich club. Johnny Fenlon, former George Washington ace, and several other ex-college stars round out the lineup.

The Wings will have their full lineup for the game with the possible exception of Hugh Hoke. Reilly, G. Bream, Chanoski, Zahn, H. Bream and Lynch will be in uniform.

Arendtsville and York Springs will play a county league game preceding the feature game. This tilt will start at 7:30 o'clock.

TAG BUSINESS GOOD

With more than 1,350,000 sets of license plates issued the bureau of motor vehicles reports the demand for 1934 registrations is continuing steadily 50,000 ahead of last year.

Looking Around

Following a two-weeks layoff due to semester examinations, Gettysburg college's undefeated basketeers will resume hostilities against Mount St. Mary's, at Emmitsburg, Friday night. The Bullets' record of five staight wins will be seriously threatened in this game and an over-flow crowd is expected to tax the Mountaineer gymnasium to its capacity.

* * *

Gettysburg high school's cagers are expected to gain ground in their race for the championship of the Southern Pennsylvania interscholastic cage league this week by playing two games. Friday night the Maroons meet Chambersburg high in the local gymnasium and Saturday night play at Mechanicsburg. Coach Forney's warriors are favorites to win both games, but may find unexpected opposition.

* * *

Hanover high, present leaders of the league, play but one game this week, meeting Carlisle high at Hanover, Saturday.

* * *

Coach Earl Zeigler's undefeated Gettysburg academy quintet has been showing increasing strength with each game. Today the Prep passers play F. and M. academy at Lancaster, and Saturday meet a strong opponent in Valley Forge military institute. Both games are listed for foreign floors. The cadets are expected to give the locals their hardest battle of the season.

* * *

Arendtsville vocational school's dribblers will play a doubledecker with Emmitsburg high at Arendtsville, Friday evening. The girls' team is undefeated and should continue their triumphant march, but the boys may encounter stiffer opposition.

* * *

Biglerville high will entertain the New Oxford boys' and girls' teams Friday night, at Biglerville. Coaches Thrush and Stock have their teams primed for two hard battles.

* * *

Thursday night the Gettysburg Fleet-Wings entertain the Heurich Reds, of Washington, D. C. The visitors boast of having scored one of the five defeats sustained by the Wings. Following this tilt the Wings will not appear on the local floor until Friday, February 9, when they clash with the Lancaster Democrats. This game will be played as a preliminary tilt to the St. Louis girls-Sweetland game. The Missourians are the world's girls professional champions and have defeated many men's teams.

Read The Bible With Us Daily

The elder unto the elect lady and her children, whom I love in the truth; and not I only, but also all they that have known the truth;

For the truth's sake, which dwelleth in us, and shall be with us for ever.

Grace be with you, mercy, and peace, from God the Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of the Father, in truth and love.

I rejoiced greatly that I found of thy children walking in truth, as we have received a command ment from the Father.

And now I beseech thee, lady, not as though I wrote a new commandment unto thee, but that which we had from the beginning, that we love one another.

And this it love, that we walk after his commandments. This is the commandment, That, as ye have heard from the beginning, ye should walk in it.

For many deceivers are entered into the world, who confess not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh. This is a deceiver and an antichrist.

Look to yourselves, that we lose not those things which we have wrought, but that we receive a full reward.

Whosoever transgresseth, and abideth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God. He that abideth in the doctrine of Christ, he hath both the Father and the Son.

If there come any unto you, and bring not this doctrine, receive him not into your house, neither bid him God speed:

For he that biddeth him God speed is partaker of his evil deeds.

Having many things to write unto you, I would not write with paper and ink: but I trust to come unto you, and speak face to face, that our joy may be full.

The children of thy elect sister greet thee. Amen.

High Speed Autos Increases Costs

The governor's committee on street and highway safety today said motor vehicle operators addicted to fast driving not only take greater risks but increase the cost of running their cars.

"High speeds are not only costly in human life and property damage but cost considerably more in the operation of a car," the committee said. "The operating cost per mile and the wear and tear on the car are much lower at moderate speeds. One-third more gasoline per mile is required to drive at 60 miles per hour than at 30. Tires wear out twice as fast at 60 as at 35. And, of course, oil burns up more rapidly at higher speeds."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

RELINQUISHMENT

IN READING of the lives of outstanding men and women, the biographer and essayist impresses us with the anxiety to show the best side, the most attractive elements which went to make up the life portrayed.

Every once in a while, however, there comes a writer who sees in his hero something else—a spiritual unselfishness that even his friends or closest kin failed to see, or to fathom, during life. I like to think of that spiritual unselfishness in the terms of relinquishment of some of the dreams and ambitions that that life, at times, had stirring within it. All foregone for the glory of happiness of someone else.

Few, if any, of our closest and most confidential friends ever know what we have given up that they might have just a little happier glow from life. But I would not place this relinquishment as a grave mark of sacrifice. He who gives most, and happiest, regrets not the gift!

The arduous worker in the world's great mart may have little time to give to the pressing demands of ordinary friendship—yet by so silencing himself in his solitude, he may render to the world a richer heritage than any friendship.

I often think of Thoreau, day after day, laboring at simple tasks in the fields, and about his humble hut, and then retiring to his desk where he wrote out the thrilling emotions of his heart, fresh from the earth-odor of the woods and meadows. He had few friends and almost no contacts outside the world he most loved—yet to the wide world he gave his lovely and inspiring interpretations of nature's heart.

Only through relinquishment of many of our dearest desires are we placed upon a plane where an unclouded and unobstructed vision becomes our heritage.

George E. Woodbury in his beautiful tribute to Wendell Phillips, speaks of the life that takes risks. "The willingness," he said, "to take risks is one gauge of faith. Risk is a part of God's game, alike for men and nations."

We always take a risk when we give up, a dream, a plan, an adventure—but only in his heart can the man count the cost of a relinquishment that has rent his spirit, but put gold into the heart of another.

"Was up in the country visiting my son last week," said Dr. Pennawaite, Sr.

"He's a young doctor, and took me on one of his calls.

"It was an interesting case.

"Chilblain, they call it up there.

"Down in the city we'd probobly call it perniosis.

"But it was just plain chilblain, after all.

"Poor girl, I was sorry for her.

"She was suffering torments.

"And she'd had it for about six years, intermittently.

"It seems she had her feet frostbitten once.

"Mighty near frozen, I guess.

"She was milking half a dozen cows with the temperature about 16 below.

"Didn't notice how cold her feet were.

"Soon after her feet began to swell and discolored spot of bluish-red began to appear.

"She used the old remedy of rubbing snow on them.

"But all that winter, during cold spells, her feet would burn and itch and swell.

"And every winter since.

"She was almost distracted when we visited her the other day.

"She was pacing the floor.

"Said she's tried everything her friends had suggested.

But still her feet itched and burned.

"My son bathed her feet in a solution, wrapped them in cotton, told her to quit trying to put her tight shoes on, and she was resting quietly when we left.

"I had a lot of experience with chilblain in my younger days.

"Blain means a swelling, or sore.

"Chill, of course, refers to the factor that causes it.

"Pernio is the Latin for chilblain.

"And perniosis is a general term for any skin affection caused by cold.

"Personally, I don't -think chilblain is a condition due to freezing of the tissue.

"It is probably brought about by the action of quite moderate degrees of cold, repeated or prolonged.

"Susceptible people should be careful of excessive exposure to cold temperature and of the harmful effects of articles of clothing, either gloves or shoes, that are tight.

"Chilblain is painful.

"I've had it."

Your Income Tax

No. 2

FORMS FOR MAKING RETURNS

Forms for filing returns of income for 1933 have been sent to persons who filed returns last year. Failure to receive a form, however, does not relieve a taxpayer of his obligation to file his return and pay the tax on time, on or before March 15 if the return is made on the calendar year basis, as is the case with most individuals.

Forms may be obtained upon request, written or personal, from the offices of collectors of internal revenue and deputy collectors. Persons whose net income for 1933 was derived chiefly from salary or wages and was not in excess of $5,000 should make their returns on form 1040A, a single sheet. Persons whose net income was in excess of $5,000, or, regardless of amount, was derived from a business, profession, rents or sale of property are required to use a larger form, 1040. Failure to use the proper form presents difficulties to both the taxpayer and the bureau of internal revenue. Therefore, it is emphasized that a taxpayer engaged in a business or profession from which he derived a net income of less than $5,000 is required to use the larger form.

The return must be filed with the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer has his legal residence or principal place of business on or before midnight of March 15, 1934. The tax may be paid in full at the time of filing the return or in four equal installments, due on or before March 15, June 15, September 15, and December 15.

Just Folks

THE RUNAWAY

I saw him 'neath a tropic sky
And sad he seemed to be,
For the home-door look was in his eye,
But he'd somehow lost the key.
He was tanned as brown as a leather shoe,
As old and as worn and thin,
And he stood on the pier, as wanderers do,
When the home-land ships come in.
He looked at our flag with a wistful eye,
But smiled as we stepped ashore;
There was something weird in his "hello" cry
Which I never had heard before.
Oh! I've heard "hello" in a thousand ways,
But never to tinged with pain
As that greeting sad where the palm tree sways
Down there on the Spanish Main.
"I've been going back home," he said to me.
"Going back for years and years.
There's a place up north where I'd like to be,
But never the chance appears.
The ships come in for a time to stay,
But their decks to me are barred.
Oh it's easy enough to run away,
It's the getting back that's hard!"
Perhaps some day will a vessel stop
For a time at that dusty town
And others may see, as the anchors drop,
A man turned leather brown.
As they get to shore they may hear that cry,
"Hello!" as it came to me
From him with the home-door look in his eye
Who had somehow lost the key.

Mild coughs often yield to lesser helps. No one can tell. No one knows which factor will do most for any certain cough. So careful people, more and more, are using Creomulsion for any cough that starts.

The cost is a little more than a single help. But your druggist guarantees it, so it costs nothing if it fails to bring you quick relief. Coughs are danger signals. For safety's sake, deal with them in the best way known. (adv.)

He BROUGHT ME to the HOUSE where I HAD BURIED my Bitter PAST

As I stepped from the car my heart leaped—I recognized the house . . .

The house on 56th Street—where long ago I had buried my shattered dreams of love.

It was too late to turn back. As gently as though I were a bride Blaine led me upstairs—to the very room where my baby was born.

Suddenly out of my past rose these memories..so real..that I shuddered as Blaine pressed kisses upon my frozen lips.

Lines in your face come from jangled nerves

Jangled nerves can make you look older than you are. And that's bad news for any woman—or man either.

Look in the mirror today. See if you already have any of those telltale wrinkles that come from nervousness—and, if you have, do something about it.

Get enough sleep—fresh air—recreation—and make Camels your cigarette.

For, remember, you can smoke as many Camels as you want. Their costlier tobaccos never jangle your nerves.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS than any other popular brand of cigarettes!

How are YOUR nerves?

TEST No. 15

Take a small rubber band—not more than two inches in length. Place one loop over your little finger . . . Then pull it across the back of your hand, well below your knuckles and catch the other loop on your thumb. When you are ready to perform the test, the band is in the position indicated in the drawing. Now, without touching your hand to your body, without help from the other hand, work off the rubber band. Average time is 10 seconds.

Shepard Barclay (Camel smoker), famous bridge expert, completed the test in 1½ seconds.
